Cat in the Hat Poem

What a great day! What a super great day!
What a super great day for your birthday!
There's sweet cake you can eat
And sweet gifts that are neat
So what a great day! What a super great day!
It's a super great day for your birthday!

And sure you could celebrate your super great day
And have some fun in a super great way
But whatever you do, do whatever you want to Because it's your great day! It's your super great day!
It's your super great day for your birthday!

So what could you do? What could you do that you want to?
You could drive a canoe while you sing toodle-loo
Or maybe bake cookies in the shape of a shoe
Or find some gum that you can go out and chew
But whatever you do, just don't make yourself blue
Because a sad birthday is a birthday that's not very true.

Birthdays should be like all the stars in the sky
They twinkle, they winkle, and no one knows why
But there every night there they are just the same
And if you listen carefully, very carefully,
your birthday even knows your own name

So go have a great day! Go have a super great day!
And just be thankful that a super great birthday
decided to come your super great way
Because without a birthday you just wouldn't be the same
It'd be like being you but being you with a different name.
And if you ask me that would just be pretty lame.
